Jesus always chose the poor. He went out to prostitutes and tax collectors,” says Br. Zachary Wilberding, OSB, coordinator of the Catholic prison ministry at the Branchville Correctional Facility. “I think Jesus is very much present in prison.”

Three times a week, Br. Zachary heads over to Branchville, an all-men medium security prison about 20 miles from Saint Meinrad Archabbey, to visit Christ.

“The mission is to do what Jesus asked us to do in the gospel. He said, ‘When I was in prison, you visited me,’” says Br. Zachary. “We’re there to visit Christ in the offenders, and that means helping them know that Christ is in them and Christ is among them. And that’s very important.”

Br. Zachary helps lead a Bible study and a Catholic faith information group and finds priests to celebrate Mass on Sunday evenings. He also coordinates a rosary devotion on Monday afternoons. His involvement in prison ministry began five years ago when he was on an internship with the prison chaplain. Before that, Fr. Sean Hoppe, OSB, celebrated Mass at Branchville for about 15 years.

During Br. Zachary’s internship, the prison chaplain asked him to start a class to help Catholic inmates learn about their faith. The Catholic faith information group was started on Friday evenings with three to four men the first year. By that time, Fr. Sean had left on sabbatical and Br. Zachary took over recruiting priests to celebrate Mass at the prison on Sundays.

One of the men who participated in the Catholic faith information group when it first started has since been released from prison. His father called Br. Zachary to tell him how much the group helped his son and he asked if there was anything he could do to volunteer.

Monks’ Personals

Fr. Harry Hagan published a poem and homily in Benedictines and an essay in Horizon.

Br. John Glasenapp was asked to help lead a program along with a local rabbi on Christian and Jewish sacred spaces. The program will be offered at The Cloisters museum located in the Bronx in conjunction with an exhibition at the Yeshiva Museum.

Fr. Thomas Gricoski will attend a conference on the philosophy of Edith Stein at King’s University College in Ontario in June.

Br. Hugh Ernst is now assigned to work in the monastery archives.

Fr. Godfrey Mullen will become rector of St. Benedict Cathedral in Evansville, IN, in June, succeeding his confrere Fr. Gregory Chamberlin, who is retiring.

Fr. Harry Hagan and former monk Fr. Keith McClellan collaborated on a booklet, Eternal Glory of the Skies, translations of Latin hymns for Ordinary Time at the Liturgy of the Hours. Fr. Keith, an editor and author at Abbey Press for more than 15 years before joining the Diocese of Gary, translated the famous hymns for Vespers based on the days of creation. Fr. Harry translated the hymns for Lauds, Daytime Prayer and Compline. The booklet is available in The Scholar Shop.

Fr. Harold remembered for his ministry to sick

Fr. Harold Hammerstein, OSB, age 89, a monk and priest of Saint Meinrad Archabbey, died on January 18, 2013, at the Little Sisters of the Poor in Evansville, IN, after a long illness. He was a jubilarian both of profession and priesthood.

Fr. Harold was born in Evansville on October 13, 1923, to Frederick and Esther (Taylor) Hammerstein, and was given the name Frederick John Jr. at his baptism. After completing his elementary education at St. Benedict Grade School in Evansville, he entered high school at Saint Meinrad, where he continued his education through college.

He joined the monastery as a novice on August 5, 1943. Soon after professing his simple vows on August 10, 1944, he was assigned to the Collegio di Sant’ Anselmo, Rome, Italy, for his theological studies. His solemn vows as a monk of Saint Meinrad were received at Einsiedeln Abbey, Switzerland, on September
Fr. Stephen, builder and priest, dies

Fr. Stephen Snoich, OSB, age 83, a monk and priest of Saint Meinrad Archabbey, died on January 6, 2013, in his infirmary cell. He was a jubilarian of profession and priesthood, and a participant in the Rush Religious Study on Aging and Alzheimer’s.

Fr. Stephen was born in Shenandoah, PA, on June 24, 1929, to Stephen and Anna (Lesousky) Snoich, and was given the name John Joseph at his baptism. After completing studies at Roosevelt Elementary and J.W. Cooper High schools in Shenandoah, he studied for one year at St. Joseph College in Philadelphia.

He then qualified as a journeyman carpenter and worked in the Philadelphia area for 10 years, including construction work at Temple University. He entered the novitiate at Saint Meinrad in 1956, and professed his vows as a brother on April 7, 1957.

The monastery was quick to take advantage of Fr. Stephen’s skill and experience. His first major project as a monk was overseeing the construction of the St. Jude Guest House.

In 1962, Fr. Stephen was assigned to Saint Meinrad’s new foundation at Oceanside, CA, St. Charles Priory (now Prince of Peace Abbey), and supervised the construction of the guest house there. He transferred his stability to St. Charles when it became an independent priory in 1969.

The following year, he asked to change his stability back to the house of his profession. Returning to Saint Meinrad, he completed college, began studies for the priesthood, was ordained on March 12, 1972, and received a Master of Divinity degree from Saint Meinrad Seminary in 1973.

For the first five years after his ordination, Father served as supervisor of the monastery buildings and manager of the campus laundry, in addition to assisting regularly in weekend parochial duties.

In September 1977, he was appointed associate pastor of St. Benedict Church, Evansville, IN, an assignment he held until 1993. During that time, he also served as confessor for the Little Sisters of the Poor at St. John’s Home for the Aged.

In 1993, Fr. Stephen was assigned as infirmary chaplain at Monastery Immaculate Conception, Ferdinand, IN. In 2004, he became pastor of St. Augusta Parish, Lake Village, in the Diocese of Lafayette-in-Indiana. He ministered there until early October 2012, when failing health necessitated his return to the monastery infirmary.

Fr. Stephen’s work as a builder was recalled when it was learned that a long-time friend of the Snoich family, grateful for their friendship, named him a major beneficiary in her will. Her unexpected generosity enabled the Archabbey to build a three-bedroom house on its grounds, allowing monks to host their visiting families, or themselves enjoy days of vacation or recollection.

Fr. Stephen’s first major assignment as a monk was managing the construction of the monastery’s guest house. A half-century later, he was delighted to proclaim the Gospel at the abbatial blessing of The Ravens house on November 1, 2012, just 10 weeks before his death.

The funeral liturgy was celebrated on January 10 in the Archabbey Church, with burial in the Archabbey Cemetery.

Fr. Stephen, builder and priest, dies

Seminarians, Carmelite nuns share international interests

For the last two years, Saint Meinrad’s international students have spent the Saturday before Ash Wednesday at the Carmelite Monastery in Terre Haute, IN. Both communities have a very international population that served as a starting point for the newly formed tradition.

The Carmelite community has 16 members and represents five countries of origin. This semester, Saint Meinrad has 43 students born outside the United States and five students who are first-generation Americans. The Saint Meinrad seminary community represents 20 different countries of origin.

This year’s event was held on February 9. The day started with a multilingual Mass with the nuns. During the Mass, 12 languages were represented through music, readings and prayer.

After Mass, the students enjoyed lunch with the nuns, and both the nuns and seminarians shared their heritages through music, stories and dance.

This new tradition builds on Saint Meinrad’s long-standing relationship with the Carmelites in Terre Haute. Fr. Vincent Tobin, OSB, and Archabbot Lambert Reilly, OSB, currently serve as regular confessors for the nuns each month.

Giving from your IRA, rather than from other assets, may be especially appropriate if you use the standard deduction rather than itemizing your deductions. It might also be a good choice if you don’t need all of your required minimum distribution or you wouldn’t be able to deduct all of your charitable contributions because of deduction limitations.

Here are some opportunities available through this legislation:

Increase Your Annual Giving—IRA funds are heavily taxed whenever you draw them out, at rates as high as 35%. You can divert the tax collector’s “take” from your IRA to Saint Meinrad.

For example, suppose you’re in a 25% tax bracket and normally send us a check for $1,000 every year. Instead of writing a check, you could instruct your IRA trustee to send us $1,333. If you had withdrawn $1,333 from your account, the tax would have been $333 in a 25% bracket. That $333 now can be used to assist our programs—all paid for by the IRS.

Annual Distribution Gifts—Under these rules, IRA gifts will count toward mandatory annual distributions required of individuals over age 70½. That means IRA gifts can reduce your 2013 taxes.

For example, Harold must withdraw at least $20,000 from his IRA this year, even though he doesn’t need the money for living expenses. Harold now can direct that the $20,000 be paid to Saint Meinrad from his IRA prior to taking any distribution and reduce his federal taxes by $5,600 in his 28% tax bracket.

Major Gifts—Lydia had planned to leave Saint Meinrad Archabbey and Seminary and School of Theology most of her IRA at her death, but says she would prefer to see her gift at work during her lifetime. Now Lydia plans to direct a $100,000 gift from her IRA this year.

For more information, please contact your IRA administrator directly. You may also contact Barbara Balka, director of planned giving, at (800) 682-0988 or bbalka@saintmeinrad.edu.

Artifacts and documents from the Second Vatican Council are among the items on exhibit this year in the Archabbey Library.

Throughout this year, the Saint Meinrad Archabbey Library is hosting an exhibit titled “The Second Vatican Council: Looking Back After Fifty Years.”

More than 2,300 Roman Catholic bishops from all over the world gathered for the Second Vatican Council, and the exhibit focuses particularly on those from Indianapolis, Louisville and Evansville.

The Council was held from 1962 to 1965 and brought together various ideas that had been brewing for more than 100 years. The liturgical movement was promoted by Pope Pius X (†1914) in his call for early and frequent Communion and for the return to Gregorian chant.

Modern printing made available the writings of the early and medieval Church. Pope Leo XIII (†1903) called for a commitment to social justice that grew during the early 20th century.

The exhibit contains documents, photographs, artifacts (chalices, liturgical garments, bishops’ Vatican passports, etc.), newspaper and magazine articles, and books and journals. Some of the items are from regional bishops who participated in the Council.

The exhibit was developed by Saint Meinrad monk Fr. Harry Hagan, OSB. “Unlike Councils before, which focused on doctrinal or disciplinary issues, this Council focused on the life of the Church, and it defined the Church as ‘the People of God’ and its mission as ‘the universal call of holiness,’” he noted.

The exhibit is free and open to the public. For library hours, call (812) 357-6401 or (800) 987-7311, or visit the library’s website: www.saintmeinrad.edu/library/hours/.

Use your IRA to make a gift—and save taxes

If you’re over age 70½, tax laws now allow you to make charitable gifts through your traditional or Roth IRA, through the end of 2013. Gifts must be made by the IRA custodian directly to the charity and may not exceed $100,000.

Although no charitable deduction is allowed, you can avoid the tax you would otherwise pay on required distributions.

Q. What attracted you to the priesthood?
The infinite love of God. When I was a teenager in Vietnam, I doubted God and the Church’s teaching. However, God never abandons me. I experience that God loves me unconditionally as a sinful man, even though I am unworthy. I wanted to be a witness of His love to let people know that God always loves us, no matter who we are.

Q. Who influenced you to begin study for the priesthood?
In 1990, I met Fr. Anathasius Lam Nguyen, the associate pastor of my parish, An Hoa in Vietnam. He lived a simple life with great love; he loved God and others, especially the poor. A humble priest, he served others with a zeal for love and was not concerned about money or status.

Q. What were you doing before you came to the seminary?
After graduating from Long Beach University in California with a Bachelor of Science degree in computer science, I worked as a claims assistant at WorkMed Benefit Services, a third-party administrator for workers’ compensation claims. I helped the claims manager and assisted the Information Technology Department in computer-related fields.

Q. Favorite saint and why?
St. Paul is my patron saint. His conversion to Jesus is an example for me to follow; through his weaknesses and by letting Christ make him strong, St. Paul experienced the redemption and love of Christ. His preaching about Christ and the kingdom to all people is also an example for me. By serving God’s people, he is his own witness of his preaching, even as he faced obstacles, adversaries, captivities and even death.

Q. Favorite Scripture verse and why?
“He must increase; I must decrease” (John 3:30). Sometimes my ego is too big for me to have room for Christ in my life. This message from Scripture reminds me that Christ should increase within me and, through my humility, He will continue to increase in the lives of others. My ministry is not self-centered, but Christ-centered.

Q. Hobbies?
I like playing sports, such as ping pong, volleyball, soccer and swimming. I also like fishing and listening to Vietnamese music and harmony music.

Q. What aspect of seminary life has been most rewarding?
It is my relationship with God and with the seminary community. Thanks to community Mass and prayers, I have more time with God. Living in the community, we also eat together. I feel that I am living in a family. The formation staff is an example to follow; they teach me and lead me closer to God and help me to serve others. Seminarians are my brothers, who always offer me support. Each seminarian is a unique gift from God to me.

Q. What aspect of seminary life has been most challenging?
There are two challenges. The first is balancing life and the four aspects of formation: the spiritual, academic, human and pastoral – there are many activities and requirements that need to be fulfilled. I try to avoid focusing too much on some aspects to the neglect of others. A second and equal challenge is language. While English is my second language, sometimes I am not able to express clearly what I want to say as well as I am able to do in Vietnamese.

Q. Best advice you’ve heard in seminary?
“Same call, different men.” God chooses the weak and makes them strong in bearing witness to Him.

Q. Other comments?
Leaving my house and my job to enter the seminary, I thought I did everything as a favor for God and to make Him happy. However, after being in the seminary, I recognize that God has actually been doing me a favor and making me happy.

I have received abundant grace and blessings, which are much more valuable than those I gave up. Although life in a seminary is demanding and challenging, I have experienced joyful and peaceful moments that I have never had before.

The Most Rev. Joseph Tobin, archbishop of Indianapolis, was officially welcomed at Saint Meinrad Archabbey on January 21. He was the principal celebrant at Mass on the Solemnity of St. Meinrad.
“It was just at that point that we decided to start a rosary devotion,” states Br. Zachary. “This man and a buddy of his began to conduct a rosary devotion every Monday afternoon and that’s still going.”

Then, about a year ago, the men wanted more of a specific Bible study, so a Monday evening Bible study group was started.

Currently, the prison has four Catholic activities at Branchville. There is Mass on Sunday evening, rosary devotion on Monday afternoon, Bible study on Monday evening and Catholic faith information group on Friday evening.

As the ministry activities have grown, so have the numbers of participants. They usually have 30-35 men at Mass on Sunday, 20-25 men at the Catholic faith information group and about 12 at the rosary and at the Bible study. About 40 men of the 1,400-inmate population attend at least one of the Catholic activities offered.

The activities are open to any of the men, even men without a church affiliation. Over the years, there have been 12 baptisms at the prison and Br. Zachary has set up a formation program to help men get ready for baptism.

“I think one of the things that we do that’s important is try to help the men feel like they have some dignity,” says Br. Zachary. “And one man told me, ‘These are two hours that feel like I’m not in prison in a good way. In a way that says I’m in a place where people respect each other and people care about each other.’”

Jesus healed people and upheld their dignity and that’s what Br. Zachary is trying to do. But he doesn’t do it alone.

“We really have this great team of volunteers and the men know it,” he says. “The offenders are very aware of how many people involved at Saint Meinrad are also working to help them. In fact, we have two men who are preparing to join the oblate program while in prison.” An oblate pledges to live out Benedictine values in his or her life in the secular world.

Br. Zachary depends on volunteers, including Saint Meinrad students and co-workers, to keep the four programs running. He says they are running at full capacity and can always use more volunteers. In fact, one of his main goals for the future of the prison ministry is to get more volunteers.

Prison ministry also helps Saint Meinrad seminarians gain essential hands-on ministry experience. Every year, three or four first-year theology students help with the prison ministry program as part of their pastoral formation.

“I think for me and for everyone that helps with the ministry, it’s a real source of happiness and joy and I’m very grateful to do it,” says Br. Zachary. “I thought this was a one-semester internship with the chaplain. That’s why, in many ways, I think God is behind all of this, because one thing after another kept presenting itself to be done and it kept working out. I had no idea that I would be involved in this at the level I am now. It’s a very happy surprise.”

This year’s annual summer gathering of alumni will include a new homecoming event on Saturday, July 27, just prior to the Reunion. The Homecoming will allow for alumni with families to experience Saint Meinrad in a new and fun way.

There will be activities for both adults and children, including a scavenger hunt, a presentation on “Fitting the Pieces of Prayer into Family Life” by Fr. Anthony Vinson, OSB, bread-making with Br. John Mark Falkenhain, OSB, and a pizza party with karaoke.

“The Homecoming is geared toward alumni with families, and because it takes place on a Saturday, we hope this will be an incentive for parents and grandparents to bring their children and grandchildren,” says Tim Herrmann, director of alumni relations.

“Additionally, Holiday World and Splashin’ Safari in nearby Santa Claus is very accommodating toward groups, and we have worked out a special ticket pricing for our Homecoming attendees if they choose to go to Holiday World on Friday, the 26th, or Sunday, the 28th,” he notes.

Following the Homecoming, the 85th Alumni Reunion will be held on July 29 and 30 with events such as a day of recollection, golf scramble, several workshops, time for prayer and Mass, socializing, and the awarding of the Distinguished Alumnus Award.

HOMECOMING SCHEDULE

The Homecoming begins Saturday, July 27, with breakfast at 8 a.m. and a tour of the Saint Meinrad campus at 10.

At 11 a.m., Fr. Anthony Vinson, OSB, will give the first presentation on “Fitting the Pieces of Prayer into Family Life.” At the same time, there will be children’s indoor and outdoor activities and arts and crafts.

Fr. Anthony serves as the pastor of St. Boniface Parish in Fulda, IN, and St. Meinrad Parish in St. Meinrad. Previously, he was director of Youth and Young Adult Formation for Saint Meinrad Seminary and School of Theology. He maintains work in the seminary as a spiritual director and also assists with the monastery vocation office.

At 1:30, there will be a scavenger hunt around the Saint Meinrad campus. All are encouraged to participate as you explore different aspects of the campus.

At 3 p.m., Br. John Mark Falkenhain, OSB, will host a bread-baking presentation for all ages.

Br. John Mark has been a monk of Saint Meinrad since 2002. At present, he works with vocations and formation in the monastery and teaches part time in the Seminary and School of Theology.

One of his contributions to the monastic life is making bread every day for the monks to enjoy at breakfast.

At 4:30, the Anticipation Mass for Sunday will take place in St. Thomas Aquinas Chapel. The principal celebrant and homilist will be President-Rector Fr. Denis Robinson, OSB. Dinner will immediately follow Mass.

At 8 p.m., a pizza party with karaoke will begin at the UnStable.

ALUMNI REUNION SCHEDULE

Monday’s Events

The Reunion begins Monday, July 29, with a golf scramble at 10 a.m. at nearby Christmas Lake Golf Course. Interested golfers can pay the $29 green fees at the course.

Also that morning, Fr. Eugene Hensell, OSB, will present a day of recollection: “The Year of Faith: Experiences of Faith in the Life and Ministry of Jesus.”

Fr. Eugene is a monk of Saint Meinrad Archabbey and has taught Scripture for over 25 years. Currently, he is in much demand giving biblical retreats to laity, religious groups and clergy.

The second part of the recollection will be held following lunch on Monday afternoon.

At 3 p.m., retired Archabbot Bonaventure Knaebel, OSB, will give a presentation that scratches at the surface of one of Saint Meinrad’s most-visited locations – the

The Reunion Mass is celebrated at each Reunion, with special prayers for deceased alumni during the past year.
Afterward, live music will be provided by The Messengers (1969 College Class).

Tuesday’s Events

Very Rev. Denis Robinson, OSB,

president-rector of Saint Meinrad Seminary and School of Theology, will give a presentation on “Who, What, When, Where and Why: The New Evangelization” at 9 a.m. on Tuesday, July 30.

This presentation seeks to center the New Evangelization in parish, diocesan and individual lives – giving us insight and a plan to move forward in the Year of Faith.

Fr. Denis, a monk of Saint Meinrad Archabbey, is the 14th president-rector of Saint Meinrad Seminary and School of Theology. He is a member of the American Academy of Religion, American Catholic Historical Association, Blessed John Henry Newman Association, Catholic Theological Society of America and the American Benedictine Academy. He holds doctorates in both philosophy and sacred theology from the Catholic University of Leuven. He has authored numerous articles and has contributed to several theological texts.

The annual meeting of the Alumni Association will be held at 11 a.m.

Alumni can choose from two workshop sessions in the afternoon. Beginning at 1 p.m., Fr. Mark O’Keefe, OSB, will offer “Making Tough Decisions about Medical Treatments.”

In today’s world, so many diseases can be cured, and so many people can be helped to return to normal living even after the most serious illnesses. But, at the same time, these medical advances have made morally good decision-making even more complicated for sincere Catholics.

In this presentation, Fr. Mark will look at the resources that the Catholic moral tradition and official teaching have to offer about such questions as withholding and withdrawing medical treatments, the use of artificial nutrition and hydration, and advance directives.

Fr. Mark O’Keefe is a monk of Saint Meinrad Archabbey, and he teaches moral theology and spirituality in the Seminary and School of Theology. He has served as president-rector of the seminary and as a pastor. He is the author of several books on spirituality and morality.

The second workshop session will be a health and wellness presentation with Ann Rohleder and Jill Memmer. They will lead three 20-minute sessions on: “Effective Exercise for Progressing Through Life,” “Arranging Your Plate” and “A Healthy Mind for a Healthy Soul.”

Ann Rohleder

She is a certified personal fitness trainer and a YogaFit level 3 instructor.

Alumnus Fr. Joseph H. Voor to be honored at summer Reunion

Fr. Joseph H. Voor O’50 (’46-50) will be the 22nd person to receive Saint Meinrad’s Distinguished Alumnus Award. The award will be conferred at the Alumni Reunion banquet on Tuesday, July 30.

Fr. Voor, 87, has been a priest in the Archdiocese of Louisville for more than 62 years. Over those six decades, he has held an exemplary record of service.

“Fr. Voor’s years of ministry and service as a priest, teacher, pastor and national leader have been marked by his humility,” says one nominator. “One might say that in each of these venues of ministry, his fingerprints remain on many projects and accomplishments for which he never sought credit.”

Fr. Voor developed strong family values at a young age. His mother died of pneumonia shortly after giving birth to him in 1925, and he and his father went to live with his relative, Christine Lampe, and her six children. After Mr. Lampe died, when Fr. Voor was 4 years old, he went to live with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard H. Voor Sr. and their six children. Then in 1943, Fr. Voor’s father was killed in an accident. He always had his extended family to fall back on and look to for support.

“Fr. Joe is like the rock of our extended family,” states one of Fr. Voor’s family members in a nomination letter. “Always present, ready, willing and able to be the spiritual light that we all need.”

Fr. Voor grew up in St. Vincent de Paul Parish in Louisville and was educated at St. Xavier High School for two years, then St. Mary’s College and Saint Meinrad Seminary. He was ordained in 1950 and was initially assigned to the Cathedral of the Assumption in Louisville.

Within a year, he was sent to The Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., where he received a doctorate in psychology.

Fr. Voor was a faculty member at Bellarmine University in Louisville from 1956-1975 and was the university’s first professor of psychology. While there, he served as director of the guidance office, director of housing, director of the school’s Upward Bound program and as a chair in the psychology department, all while teaching a full load of classes.

In 1972, Fr. Voor returned from a sabbatical at the University of Michigan to establish the parish council system for the Archdiocese of Louisville, a structure that is still in place today.

At the same time he was launching the council system, Fr. Voor was elected first president of the National Organization for the Continuing Education of Roman Catholic Clergy Inc. He was also serving as director of continuing education of clergy of the Archdiocese of Louisville from 1971-1982.

Fr. Voor served as president of the National Guidance Council in 1973. He has been a prison chaplain for more than 20 years, as well as a chaplain for the Serra Club of Louisville, Knights of St. John and has been involved with the Worldwide Marriage Encounter Council since 1978 as both a team priest and in local leadership.

He has received an honorary degree from the Knights of St. John and the Pope John XXIII Medal from the National Organization for Continuing Education for Clergy.

Fr. Voor has served as the senior associate at St. Brigid and St. James parishes since his retirement in 1995. He remains active as a national committee member of the Worldwide Marriage Encounter. Fr. Voor also served as a member of the health panel for a number of years in the Archdiocese of Louisville.

He continues to remain physically active, playing golf and tennis at least once a week.

2013 Phonathon proves to be successful

Each spring, seminarians take part in the Alumni and Friends Phonathon hosted by the Development Office. This year, seven evenings in February and March were devoted to the Phonathon. The entire student body participated and, by the end of the last evening, they had made calls to more than 3,500 alumni and nearly 1,000 friends. Their efforts helped to raise more than $27,000.

Fr. Tobias Colgan, OSB, vice rector of the school, explains, “The Phonathon is important for several reasons: it helps us reconnect with our alumni, it gives our alumni the chance to talk with a current student about the happenings on the Hill, it gives students an opportunity to practice speaking with our benefactors, and it raises money to support the mission of the school.”

“I’m grateful to the students for sacrificing one of their evenings to help with the Phonathon,” says Associate Director of Annual Giving John Huether C’74, who organizes the event. “Many have never done this kind of work before and find it fun talking with alumni and hearing their stories of being here on the Hill—it’s a good experience for the callers and for the people they reach.”

On the last two evenings, the Friends Phonathon included a “thank-a-thon,” giving students an opportunity to speak directly with Saint Meinrad’s donors and personally thank them for their recent generosity.

New fundraising course offered for Catholic leaders

What do you do when the landscape of religious giving is drastically changing? How do you inspire generosity during difficult economic times? Where do you find the training and tools to meet the needs of your Catholic parish or organization?

This fall, Lake Institute on Faith & Giving, in partnership with Saint Meinrad’s Institute for Priests and Presbyterates, is offering a new program on religious fundraising. The four-day course leads to an Executive Certificate in Religious Fundraising (ECRF).

The course will be held September 9-12, 2013, on the Saint Meinrad campus. Catholic priests, deacons, lay ministers and other Church leaders are invited to participate.

The purpose of the ECRF is simple – to provide clergy and development personnel who serve faith-based organizations with expertise in fundraising principles and practices.

There is no intentional fundraising training program that focuses exclusively on the needs, challenges and opportunities of people serving religious congregations. ECRF offers a balanced exploration of congregational cultures, generosity and the fundamentals of fundraising.

The ECRF program introduces Catholic fundraisers to additional and advanced training resources, addressing the continuing education needs of clergy and other leaders who aspire to make a difference.

This new opportunity is intended to strengthen pastoral leadership in resource development. Participants will learn core fundraising principles and explore the rituals and practices that foster generosity, with the educational and theological rigor that addresses the needs of faith leaders.

As part of the Indiana University School of Philanthropy, Lake Institute on Faith & Giving is dedicated to helping people of faith think creatively and reflectively
